“I use ConferencePlus’s capabilities with my customers every week, and it allows me to be much more productive with my time.”

*Patrick S.

“ConferencePlus has helped bridge a gap between us and our customers.....With web conferencing, we are able to show them information from our software and even give them a full demonstration of their products.”

*Joshua C.
Robotics Sales*

Today, many sales professionals are doing more by combining audio and web conferencing. Whether you're hosting a "Webinar" or simply walking a prospect through a sales presentation, you can rely on our easy-to-use conferencing services to help you close the deal!

Why put your next big sale or Webinar at risk when you can use the reliable, easy-to-use services of ConferencePlus. With customer satisfaction ratings over 99%, you know we are delivering high quality services that you can trust. By using our conferencing services, your sales team can easily orchestrate a product demo, host a Webinar, or deliver a one-on-one "solution sale".

Maximizing your productivity with remote selling

Conferencing helps you reach out to more prospects – more often and more cost-effectively. By reducing the amount of effort spent coordinating schedules and traveling from meeting to meeting, you can spend more time personalizing your sales approach and presenting to the people you need to reach – wherever they are, whenever it is convenient for them.

We have integrated our audio and web conferencing services to simplify the meeting experience. This allows you to get your customers and prospects engaged in a web conference with the simple click of their mouse. So even customers that have never used web conferencing before will find our services are easy-to-use. By providing you and your customers with a "no hassles" experience, you can concentrate on closing the deal, not managing your conference. Our simple goal: provide a positive, "no surprises" conferencing experience that improves your productivity and simplifies your business day.
